

Parent Teacher Home Visit Project

This session will provide an overview of the Parent Teacher Home Visit Project and the implementation into the Helena School District. This research based program improves test scores, increases homework return rates, decreases behavior referrals, increases parent involvement, and increases graduation rates! Chris Ralph (Kindergarten) and Jena Anderson (Title I) have been instrumental in modeling the program at Warren Elementary School and providing training to 173 educators, both in Helena and in other school districts across the state. They will inspire you with their engaging stories and insight into encouraging parent and teacher partnerships. Come learn what a difference this program can make for you, the parents, and most especially the students!
